Paris.

The Current Events Department of the Maison Helm recently has added some important and interesting items to its collection, among which are some amusing pyjamas.

Those in black linen, are very new, very smart and very practical. And there are others in white linen — against which a good suntanned skin shows up well. Others too, in white shantung, cool and summery. One model in white linen with black stripes has brassiere in red shantung is a high light.

New Day Coats Are Belted Coats No Longer Popular.

New Day Styles Are Loose Fitting.

The newest day coats are three-quarter length, fairly loose fitting, but so far they are not voluminous. The belted day coats are no longer popular.

Jackets to suit are hip-bone length and in one or two shows they have enormous pockets put in with a deep crease on each side to make them stand out.

HIGHER HATS FOR AUTUMN.

Necklines Remain "Built-Up."

Although prices and currencies may fall, there is no such weakness in the realm of fashion. Hats are towering upward with the new high pointed Schiaparelli Pixie cap rivalling the established fez, now a bit on the outskirts of the mode.

Dress necklines show no signs of becoming lower, and there is a rumour going around that the Fall will see an especially high-cut kid-skin Oxford shoe as the vogue for footwear.

SOMETHING NEW IN BRACELETS.

Popular "Bad Luck" Omens.

Supposed "bad luck" omens are popular in Europe.

The newest include a golden new moon on its back, and a miniature spitting cat made in graved gold.

There are also lucky beans of opal—which is considered an unlucky gem except for those born in October—and other stones.

HOW CHILDREN GET COLDS.

In the treacherous autumn months, with their sudden changes of temperature, it is difficult to safeguard children from catching cold. Provided children are sensibly clad the governing factor in a child's immunity from colds is the condition of the stomach and intestines.

An occasional mild, expert dose of Baby's Own Tablets is an excellent safeguard which will ensure that any unobserved irregularity is corrected, and that congestion of the food tract which makes a child liable to a chill will not take place.

Baby's Own Tablets are made from the prescription of a physician who for many years studied children's ailments, and successful use in millions of homes all over the world is ample proof of their general efficacy. Baby's Own Tablets have definitely superseded the old fashioned gripping crude regulators such as castor oil, senna, cascara and salts, all of which, even in small doses, are too severe for children's delicate internal membranes. Give your children a few Tablets every now and then this autumn and winter and note how fit and cheerful and free from colds they will keep. All chemists can supply you.

"LOLLY" GOLDMAN'S WEDDING

Popular Sportsman To Marry To-day

INTERPORT IN FIVE SPORTS

(By OUTSIDE LEFT).

"Lolly" Goldman, one of the Colony's finest Interport all-rounders, is being married this afternoon at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, to Miss Elizabeth Stuart Black Laing, a prominent member of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club.

"Lolly" will probably be remembered for his soccer days in Shanghai where for many seasons he led the Shanghai Football Club's forwards in the Senior Division.

His partnership with Leo Coulcher, a Singapore boy and the finest inside left Shanghai has ever produced, presented the most formidable combination in Northern soccer.

Goldman has played practically every sport in the East, and has represented both the Colony and Shanghai at Soccer and Rugger.

Among the sports at which he has gained Interport honours are soccer, rugby, tennis, cricket and swimming.

In addition to these sports he has also proved himself a very capable oarsman, and for one season he was captain of the Rowing Club "Bluet," Basketball champions of Shanghai some years ago.

PEARCE PUZZLES MALAYA

FIGHTING INNINGS ENDED IN LAST OVER

ALVIS AND JONKLAAS FIGURE IN INVALIDUE STAND

FOURTH INNINGS DANGER.

(By Athole.)

SENSATIONAL cricket was provided yesterday at the H.K.C.C. when Hong Kong, with five wickets in hand, concluded a day of low scoring 41 runs behind Malaya's first innings total. In all 143 runs were scored for 13 wickets!

With the wicket showing definite signs of wear during the Colony innings yesterday runs will be required quickly to-day if Hong Kong are to avoid a stupendous task on a wicket which will give G. Willis and W. O. Jonklaas, the visitors' two fastest bowlers, every assistance in the fourth knock.

I think R. N. Hamilton did the only thing possible when he won the toss and elected to bat. After yesterday's play the wicket showed signs of wearing, and if Malaya can force Hong Kong to bat to-morrow the Colony batsmen will be in a very unenviable position.

ALVIS and Jonklaas were associated in an invaluable sixth wicket partnership which realised 29 runs when Malaya had lost half their wickets for 46.

CHINESE Player's Bright Knock

THE pair batted with all the necessary caution, Jonklaas playing a stonewalling game, which is foreign to him, in a heroic manner. He, however, hit anything pitched up with refreshing vigour. A touch of humour was added when the hitter pinched the bowling from Willis, who opened shakily, and then proceeded to sit on the splice.

JONKLAAS, however, was not destined to stay long. When he had scored 15 he attempted to hit a well pitched up one from Duckitt out of the ground, did not get well enough under it, and was brilliantly caught high up by Minu at mid off.

ALVIS, who shaped promisingly though he did not play the orthodox straight bat, was out to a good catch by Owen Hughes when attempting to late-cut Duckitt. He may prove a quick scorer in the second innings to-day.

DUCKITT, though he failed with the bat, broke up the most dangerous-looking Malaya partnership when he dismissed Alvis. In all he took the wickets of Alvis, Jonklaas, and Willis for only 2 runs, though he finished up with 3 for 12.

MORGAN played a plucky innings until he edged one from Hamilton into Owen Hughes' safe hands.

Poor Backing Up

BURN was unlucky to be run out when he looked as if he might have scored some runs, but he had only himself to blame, though it was a shortish run which Gibson called for. Had he backed up well he would have got in. The ball went to the right of Pearce at cover, and before his return reached Duckitt. Burn should have been given sufficient evidence during his short stay of being a very useful batsman.

GIBSON, though not exactly comfortable during his stay, might have been put off by the incident, but he was decidedly unfortunate to be dismissed in the manner he was. He was shaping for a leg shot off Goodwin when the ball cocked up at the last minute forcing him to make his stroke almost on the handle of the bat for Duckitt to bring off a great catch overhead at short leg. He has a long reach and uses it to advantage, but he is just a trifles too cautious to score runs before he takes risks.

PEARCE was undoubtedly the best of the Colony bowlers. He was never afraid to toss them up if the batsman showed any inclination to hit, and kept an immaculate length throughout several of the visitors being extremely fortunate when they unwittingly stopped balls which

HALLMARK WINS MELBOURNE CUP OVER TWO MILES

Clocks 3.27.1 From Field Of 18

Melbourne, To-day.

Hallmark (at 4 to 1) won the Melbourne Cup over the two miles course at the Flemington race-course yesterday when he beat Shadow King (50 to 1) by a head in 3.27.1 from a field of eight.

Gaine Carrington (16 to 1) and Topical (8 to 7) dead heated for third place, only a head separating them from Shadow King in a magnificent finish.—Reuter.

MORNING PLAY

46 Runs For Last Wicket.

CAPTAIN'S FINE KNOCK.

(Continued From Column 1) send the young batsman back. Dunkley gathered the ball and appeared to attempt stumping, and an appeal was made, Mr. Dean, at the bowler's end, referred the decision to Mr. Bassett, at square leg, who gave the batsman out as bowled. 61-5-6.

JONKLAAS Bowled:

With Jonklaas holding his end up and Hamilton forcing the pace with magnificent hook shots Malaya appeared to be getting the upper hand, especially with the Malayan captain shielding Jonklaas as much as possible. Duckitt, however, broke up a dangerous partnership when he knocked back the newcomer's off stump. 81-6-5.

Pearce then relieved Hamilton, who had been very harshly treated by his opponent of the same name, and bowled a malediction to the Malaya skipper.

Redmond saved a certain boundary from Hamilton off Duckitt by picking up an awkwardly bouncing ball when travelling at full speed along the boundary. It was a magnificent piece of fielding.

Gill shaped very well, hitting two boundaries off Pearce in consecutive overs to send up the 90 after 105 minutes play. Minu now relieved Duckitt and the 100 went up in this over as the result of a boundary by Hamilton and four byes.

Pearce changed to over the wicket in the next over and was immediately hit to leg for 2 by Gill.

He changed back to round the wicket in his next over, but could make no impression on Gill, whom he bowled with a snorter in the first innings.

ARMISTICE DAY ENCOUNTER

Services Expected To Triumph

This Saturday's football game between the Combined Services and the Rest of the Colony should provide first-class football.

Judging on recent form displayed by members of both teams, there remains little doubt as to a Services' victory.

The game takes place at the Military ground Sookunpoo and will commence at 3.30 p.m.

The following are the teams:—The Rest:—Wong Wing (S.C.A.A.); Hill (Kowloon) and S. Strange (Club); Leung Wing-chui (S.C.A.A.); Channing (Police) and S. Lai (Kowloon) (captains); Tang Kwong-kum (Athletic); Tam Kong-pak (S.C.A.A.); How (Club); Strange (Club) and Black (Kowloon).

Combined Services:—Pte. Heath (Lincoln); Bds. Allan (Artillery); Pte. Morrison (Borderers); A. B. Purkins (H.M.S. Orpheus); L/Cpl. Cork (Lincoln); E. R. A. McGuire (H.M.S. Suffolk); B. Q. M. S. Snook (Artillery); Pay. Mid. Smith (H.M.S. Suffolk); Sto. Langmead (H.M.S. Berwick); L/Cpl. Ridley (Lincoln) and Lt. J. H. Horquard (Lincoln) (captains).

Reserves:—Pte. Harris (S.W.B.); L/Cpl. Baldry (Lincoln); Pte. Podmore (S.W.B.); A. B. James (H.M.S. Berwick); A. B. Fairless (H.M.S. Keppel).

Referee:—Capt. E. Hague R.A. Linesmen—Yeoman of Signals McMurray (H.M.S. Berwick) and C. Q. M. S. Hyde (S.W.B.).

Services Team For Saturday

The selection of the Services Eleven to meet the Rest on Armistice day on the Club ground is fairly strong, but could be improved in one or two positions. The selection of the defence is good, but I would have selected Thomas of the Berwick in preference to L/Cpl. Cork of the Lincoln for the centre-half position.

Cork is an excellent-half, but he has not the stamina that Thomas possesses. The latter played for the Navy at Home, and his recent display against the Borderers should have secured him a place.

A grave error was made in the selection of Snooks the Artillery.

EAST LANCS DEBUT ON SATURDAY

SOUTH CHINA TO MEET THE RECREIO

LINCOLNS v. ATHLETIC

As a result of the Armistice Day football game between the Combined Services and the Rest of the Association on the Sookunpoo ground on Saturday no First Division games were scheduled to take place over the week-end, but the Lincolns and Athletic premier league game, which should have taken place last Sunday but which was postponed because of the former's visit to Canton, will take place this Sunday on the Club ground.

South China have also a First Division fixture against the Recreio, a postponed one from last month on the Railway ground at Kowloon on Sunday.

The 1st Battalion, the East Lancashire Regiment who arrived in Hong Kong last Sunday by the Transport Neuralia, will make their local soccer debut this week-end in the Second and Third divisions against the R.A. and R.A.M.C., respectively.

The East Lancashires have not a team, while Fung King-cheong may however, a very good soccer reputation and their opponents are expected to win in both games.

The Lincolns, who have registered wins in all their games, will have a stiff hurdle to overcome in the Athletic on Sunday, but in spite of the latter's reputation, the Lincolns should register their fifth League victory.

Roden, the Lincolns left full back will not be making an appearance against the Athletic on Sunday owing to a thigh injury sustained some weeks ago. His place will probably be taken by Colclough of the second eleven in the event of Edmiston, who was injured at Canton, being unable to play at Allian. This should weaken the Lincoln defence somewhat, and will certainly give Bett a lot more to do in defence.

The Club second eleven will be facing yet another defeat when they meet the Navy second eleven on their own ground.

Borderers' Sixth Win?

The Borderers, who meet Kowloon, should obtain their sixth win, while the Young Indians should give South China a good run for their money.

On Sunday the Athletic and Lincolns, two well balanced teams will battle for Second division honours, while the East Lancashires make their local debut against the Artillery, who have sustained only one defeat to date.

In the Third Division, the Lincolns present leaders, will probably retain their distinction when they meet the Air Force at King's Park, while the Borderers will have a hard fight against the Service Corps at the Valley.

As the result of last Sunday's encounter against the Borderers, it is quite probable that South China will make several changes in the forward line for their game against the Recreio.

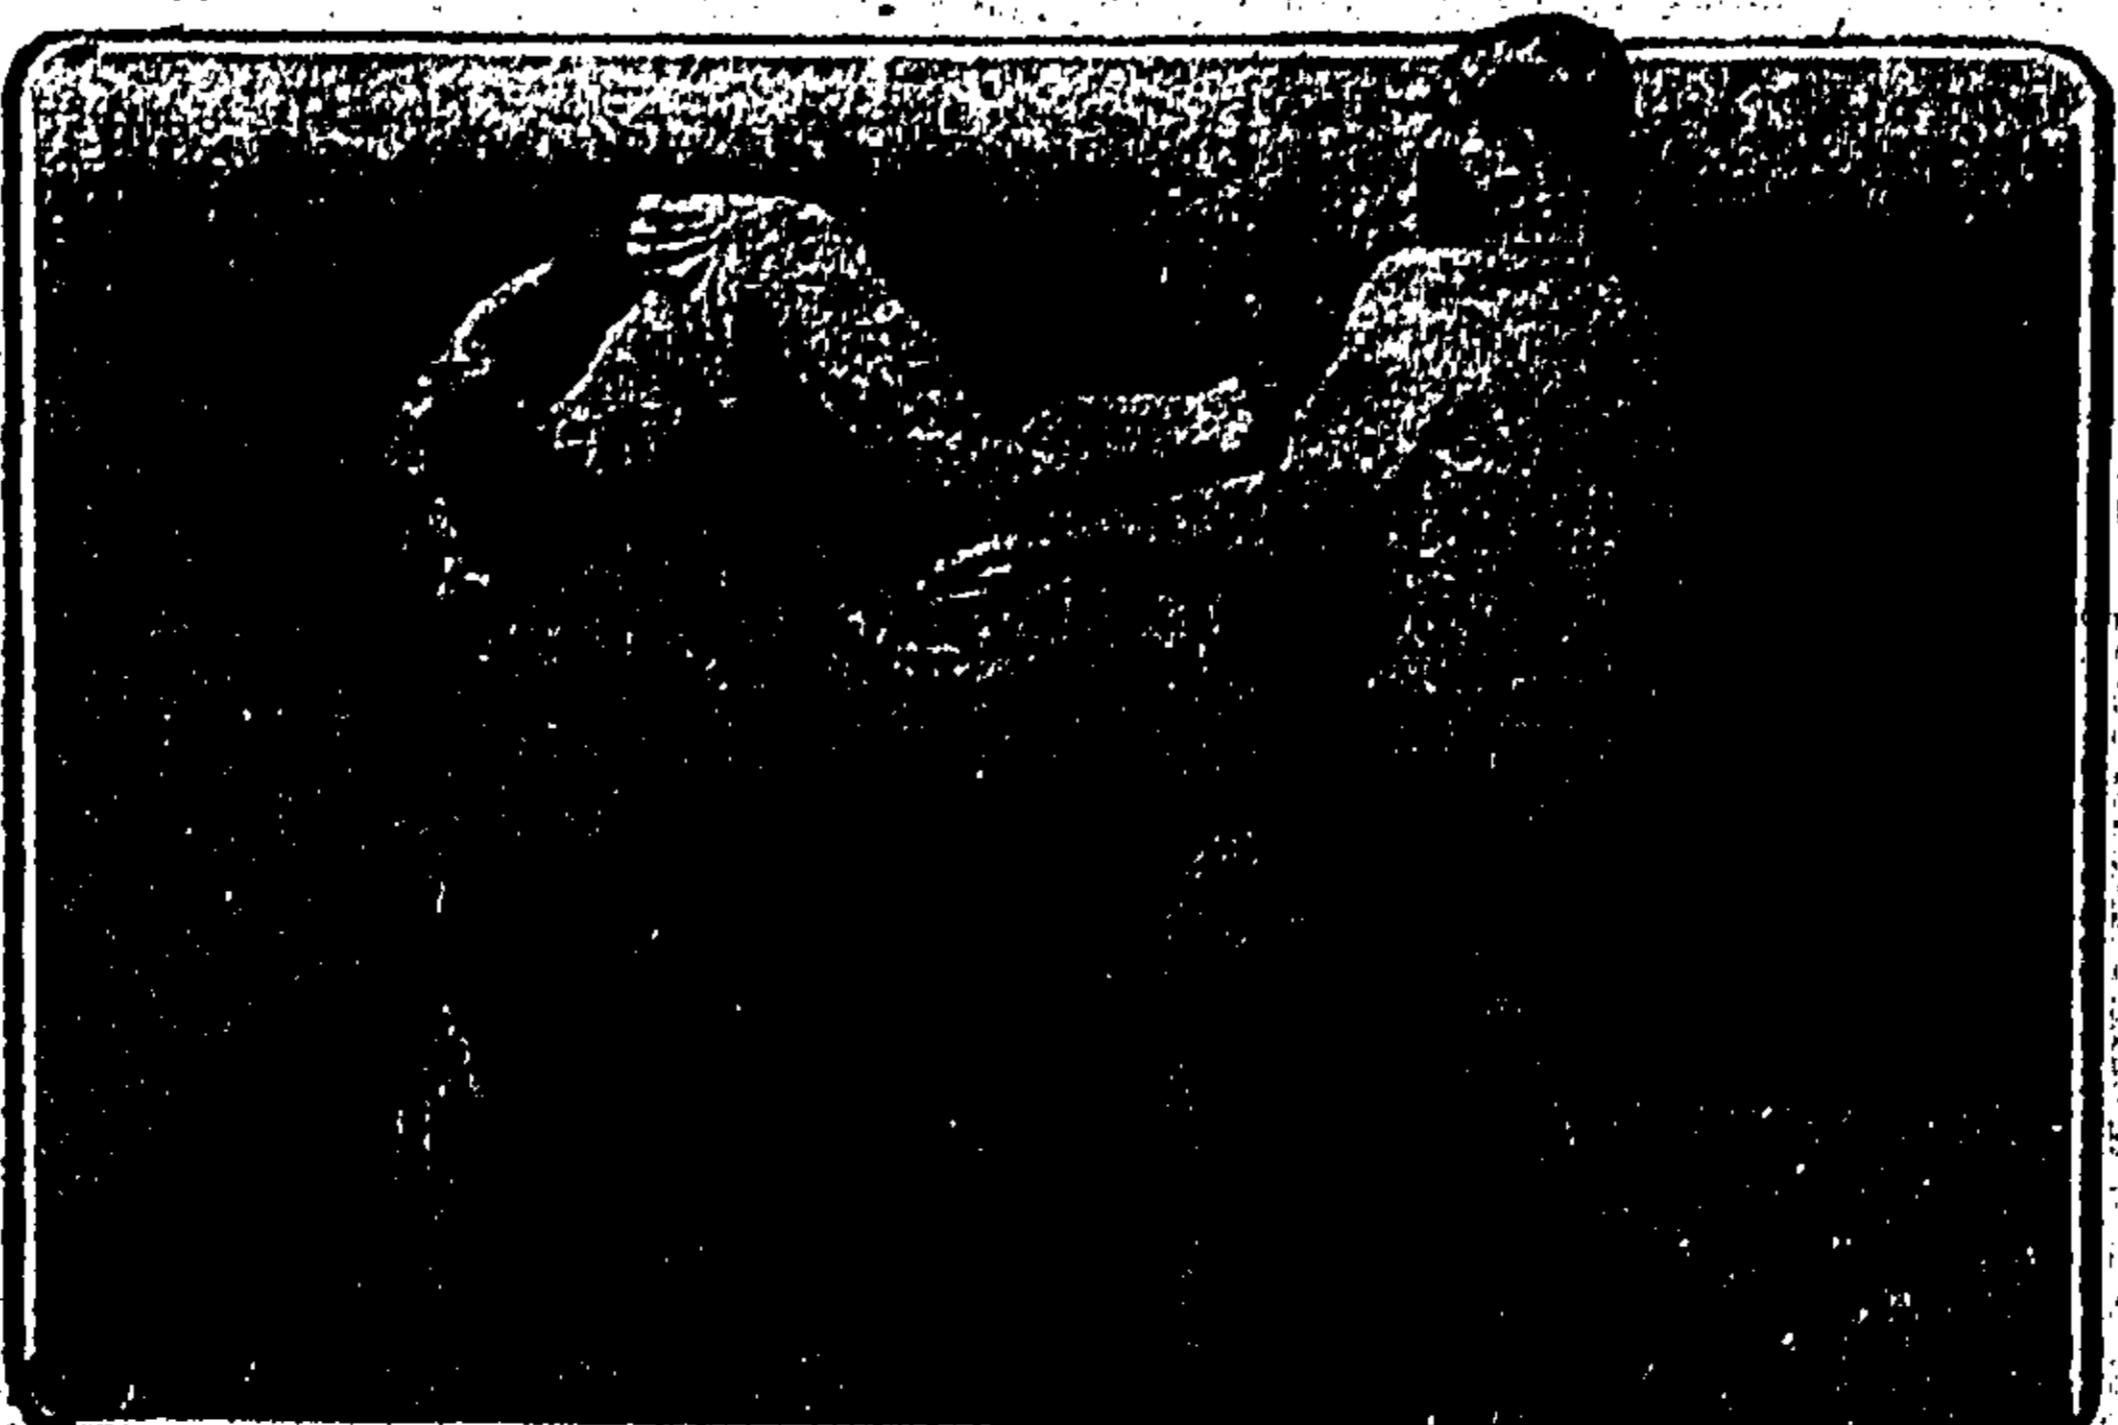

Tay Quee-liang, who made such a promising debut at centre forward only to mar it at the result of his bad tackle against Underwood, the Borderers' left half, will probably be left out of the right winger when there are better men available in Baldry of the Lincolns and Fairless of the Navy.

Both the latter are first-class men and have performed well this season, while Snooks has proved to be the weak link in the Artillery's attack.

ARTILLERY AND LINCOLNS
THE HARDEST HIT
(BY OUTSIDE LEFT).

Several leading military soccer players will be leaving the Colony during the next month as a result of the usual movements of troops at this period.

It is already known that Harding, the Lincolns' inside right, and Combe the Artillery's custodian, will in all probability be leaving this month. Harding is going home, while Combe is being transferred to Ceylon.

COMBEY.

The Artillery who are feeling the loss of their best players from last year, will be losing five more of their premier side later on as Allian, Rodgers, Greenhields, Walker, and Smith are all leaving. The Gunners will then be left with only Pardoe, Seal, Harris, Rowe, and Barraclough.

The Lincolns will incur a similar loss when Heath, Roden, Cork, and Bett leave in the New Year. Releif will arrive from home in the near future, but what these relief will bring in the way of footballers remains to be seen.

Harris, the Borderers' right winger, is the only one of his team likely to go away so last year's runners-up will not be so badly handicapped.

INTERPORT CRICKET

Wally Hammond's Favourite

PEARCE showed the most confidence of the Colony batsmen and was most unfortunate to be out for obstruction off the fifth ball of the last over. He used "Wally" Hammond's favourite shot—a cross bat hit anywhere between the bowler and extra cover off a bumping ball—to advantage when facing Jonklass. This bowler, however, had him completely beaten by one ball that Pearce snicked to the boundary.

PEARCE showed respect for Speldewinde with anything of a length on the wicket but would not be tempted to hit anything off the wicket unless it was well pitched up. One ball from this bowler he did not attempt to play or even cover, maintaining his batting stance for the next ball.

SCORING his 27, out of 45 Pearce saved the Colony at a critical period.

WILLIS bowled well in patches, but he was often very short of a length, though not dangerous to the batsman. In his first spell he had 1 for 12, but in the second spell he took the valuable wickets of Garthwaite and Pearce in 11 balls for only 4 runs. When he bowled a length he is decidedly dangerous, but he was not bowling as fast yesterday as Goodwin was.

Speldewinde Brilliant Gill did all that was required of him with the new ball when he dismissed Duckitt and was taken off after four overs. Speldewinde bowled exceedingly well for his 1 for 9 and thoroughly deserved Williams' wicket after an earlier appeal for obstruction. With a higher action than Minu he is the more natural left-handed bowler, and I think he is the better of the two.

JONKLASS was not an impressive figure as I thought he would be, but he will need careful watching on a wavy wicket in the fourth innings.

Dunne played brilliant football and, though he was not a scorer, helped his new side to gain their most smashing victory this season. It looks, on the

HAS SUMMER RESIDENCE

Boston.
An elderly Mexican parrot, who spends her summers in the New Hampshire mountains and the winter season in Boston, is probably the only bird in the country that pays an income tax.

"Pretty Polly" has her own private fortune of G$5,000 on which she had just paid an income tax of $6.

Since she lives a quiet, homely life, her expenses are low for a rich parrot—only $250 a year for cage, board and incidentals.

The rest of her fortune she has invested in sound, conservative stocks and bonds.

"Polly" and her estate are in the care of Mrs. Nina B. Allen. Her late husband, Mr. Frederick D. Allen, left a $6,000 trust for the parrot, with Mrs. Allen as executrix. "Polly," in accordance with her station in life, has never learned to swear.—Reuter

DEBATE IN COMMONS

SIR J. SIMON
REVIEWS ARMS SITUATION

Serious, But Badly Exaggerated.

BRITAIN AND GERMANY

London. To-day.

In the House of Commons yesterday Sir John Simon, opening the disarmament debate, described the situation as undoubtedly serious, but said there was no justification for the deplorably exaggerated and excited language used about it by some people.

As for the position and action of the British Government, he maintained that their whole devotion and effort in the cause of disarmament had been consistent and sincere.

Having remarked that there was nothing in the proceedings of the Disarmament Bureau on October 14 which could justify the shock tactics that Germany had then adopted, the Foreign Secretary said that the Conference had been in danger of losing its way when, last March, it was given new and definite direction by the production of the British draft Convention, the contents of which had been selected to suggest the probable greatest measure of attainable general consent.

The plan presented a picture of complete settlement; it suggested actual numerical limits for the principal European Powers in such things as aeroplanes and effectives; it was adopted by the Conference as a basis of discussion and it was accepted in principle by both France and Germany.

But, while the Conference adopted a number of general proposals, these did not lead to progress on numbers. By the end of June it was impossible usefully to enter on the second reading of the draft, and it was decided to adjourn, to allow of conversations between the various interested Governments.

Coming to the question of how this affected Germany, Sir John Simon warmly agreed that it was necessary to try to see inside the mind of Germany and to understand why the German people had exhibited this vehement resentment. Long delays must have made Germany increasingly impatient. While it was quite untrue to say that Germany's disarmament under the Peace Treaties was conditional upon the prompt achievement of general disarmament by others, it was clear on the face of the Treaty and in M. Clemenceau's letter that Germany's disarmament was contemplated as the first step towards general disarmament.

Sir John Simon ended with a reference to the speech made in Berlin on Monday night by the German Foreign Secretary, who declared that the Germans were making to other Powers a honest and trustful offer and invited them to take the hand which Germany stretched out.

Sir John Simon said that he recalled a recent statement made by Chancellor Hitler, intimating a wish to get into closer communication with the French.

"We most earnestly trust these statements may lead, in some form or other, to a renewal of the contract, and this object will be pursued by whatever method is found most useful of approach."

"The British Government have shown themselves throughout prepared to consult with the other Governments in this spirit, and we have never been sticklers for methods," he said.—British Wireless Service.

that it remained one of principal stabilising influences in Europe.

"The question is," he continued, "whether the obligations of this country would be needed if Germany two years hence carried out the intention, of which she has given notice, to leave the League of Nations. Germany has the opportunity of withdrawing that notice at any time during the next two years, and the Government, and I am sure the whole House, earnestly trust that the course of events will result in her doing so. A great deal can happen and great deal will happen in the next two years and every influence we can use will be on the side of reconciliation and peace. Do not let us speak to-day as if the march of future events were beyond the control of men of goodwill.

WITHDRAWAL DISASTER.

"But the withdrawal of Germany, if it ever becomes a fact, would rouse issues of so far-reaching a character that it would be impossible to make any public statement upon them without careful consideration in consultation with the other parties to the Treaty. I would depurate the discussion of these hypotheses which only serve to create apprehension, and it may be misapprehension.

"Much as we deplore Germany's recent action, and unjustified as we think it to be, that is no reason for speaking as if the door she has shut is bolted and barred, and we shall seek every opportunity of keeping in touch with her as well as with the other signatories to the Treaty of Locarno.

"The effort which that Treaty represents to promote stability in Europe is not exhausted, and our own influence in the cause of Disarmament would not be increased but would be fatally prejudiced if the existence and the effect of that Treaty were not fully borne in mind.

"The promotion of general Disarmament was one of its objects, and while it is true that, without apportioning the blame, there has been sad delay in achieving agreed Disarmament but not a moment lost in working for it, no friend of the cause should make Disarmament more difficult than ever by suggesting that the assurances to which Britain has put her hand are assurances we are prepared to ignore."

Sir John Simon ended with a reference to the speech made in Berlin on Monday night by the German Foreign Secretary, who declared that the Germans were making to other Powers a honest and trustful offer and invited them to take the hand which Germany stretched out.

Sir John Simon said that he recalled a recent statement made by Chancellor Hitler, intimating a wish to get into closer communication with the French.

"We most earnestly trust these statements may lead, in some form or other, to a renewal of the contract, and this object will be pursued by whatever method is found most useful of approach."

"The British Government have shown themselves throughout prepared to consult with the other Governments in this spirit, and we have never been sticklers for methods," he said.—British Wireless Service.

For Mayoralty.

Wall Street is wagering heavily on what promises to be one of the noisiest and busiest municipal elections for many years.

Mr. La Guardia, the anti-Tammany candidate, is an odds on favourite at one to three.

Five to two odds are given against Tammany and the Independent candidate, Mr. McKee, who has tacitly supported the White House.

Four to one is given against Mr. O'Brien, the present Mayor and nominee of Tammany Hall. The amount of the bets, however, is below previous years.

Britain's Trade Improvement

There is now no excuse for despondency or even for doubt with regard to trade improvement. Trade has improved and is improving, and it will continue to improve steadily if it is allowed free scope. The turn has come, and it should be welcomed with enthusiasm, and those who have been holding back from trade enterprise for whatever reason in order to make sure that the revival was not a mere flash in the pan should now take heart and go forward. The preliminary figures of the September Trade Returns abundantly confirm the evidence already supplied from other sources, such as the improving railway traffics and the steady rise in the figures of employment, which are 600,000 better than a year ago. Exports for September show an increase of £1,200,000 over those of August and £8,000,000 higher than last year, and the increase comes under the head of wholly or mainly manufactured articles—a welcome sign. There was an increase in imports as compared with August, due to larger purchases of food, drink and tobacco. These figures are of the kind which should give unalloyed satisfaction. They show, in conjunction with the employment figures, that home production is improving and that the export trade is also doing considerably better in spite of the prediction of the Free Trade prophets that the new British

Tariff would make such improvement impossible. Britain is still, as the Chancellor of the Exchequer reminded the country last month, the first exporting country in the world, and she is fully holding her share of the volume of international trade, which has shrunk in value to but 34 per cent. of what it was as recently as 1929. A sustained rise in wholesale prices would soon put a different complexion on these figures, and the returns show a rise of 0.6 per cent. for the month, or 1.1 per cent. compared with last year. It is very small, but at least it is on the right side. Where such a rise is most needed is in the world prices of primary commodities. That would be followed by an immediate bound forward in trade, as the primary producers once more appeared as buyers. Mr. Runciman's timely comments at St. Ives will confirm the prevailing optimism. The President of the Board of Trade said that Britain was "regaining bit by bit her old position," and he specially claimed as an achievement without parallel in the history of modern industrial countries that the cost of living remained very much the same as when the National Government took office.

As a result of his recently concluded Trade Agreements with the Scandinavian countries a marked improvement has taken place on the North-East Coast, and more men are now in employment in Scotland than for some years past. But if he has made the markets of Northern Europe secure for British coal the amount of coal sold is lamentably small compared with what was considered normal ten years ago. The reason for that, however, lies not with him, but with prevailing trade conditions. Mr. Runciman said that the Government intend to carry out their policy of bargaining and insisting on a fair quid pro quo, as far as they can; and he promised to turn his attention to steel as soon as he has concluded his negotiations with Japan with respect to cotton. The result of the latter is awaited with some anxiety, because in this case political considerations cannot be wholly dissociated from economic. Lancashire, however, will welcome the President's assurance that he means to make a big effort to place her "vastly important cotton export industry" upon a "satisfactory" footing. Without the instruments of Coincident with the opening of the new term at Oxford there has come a copy of a guide-book which is given to every German Rhodes scholar on his appointment.

The guide is privately printed. It was written by the first German Rhodes scholars to go to Oxford.

It contains much useful information on such matters as deportment, sport, English public schools, and even work.

The comment is very friendly. New scholars, who are recommended to take up rowing as the one sport in which a German can hope to excel, are warned that the English undergraduate is not such a fool as he makes himself out to be.

Calling a Jones

The guide contains, too, a rather cynical thumbnail sketch of the various colleges.

Trinity and "Univ." are hated as the most friendly to Germans. Balliol is described as the hardest-working college during the week, with orgies on Saturdays.

Here is the extract on Jesus College:

"Jesus is the Welsh College. If you call out 'Jones' in the quad, 70 windows open. (The others shelter nothing but Lloyds). If you call out 'Jones with the red hair,' only 45 heads appear. But if you call out 'Jones with the tooth-brush,' then only one window opens."

A final chapter on shops advises Germans to buy all their clothes, shirts, boots, etc., in England. This book, although still issued, was written in pre-Hitler days.

King of Arabia interviewed—II

KING IBN SAUD'S CONQUESTSARABIA MUST BE FREE FROM FOREIGN CONTROL

By Captain Harold G. Armstrong,

Author of "Grey Wolf," Mustapha Kemal's Biography.

My interview with Ibn Saud at his palace near Jidda was, as arranged, resumed next day. There was but a minimum of formality, and none of the pleasantly elaborate but time-eating courtesies of the Hejaz.

The King, as is his habit, had been working since long before dawn, and despite the tremendous heat, would work most of the day and evening.

He worked continuously and slept little, taking a short drive, or sometimes a picnic, as his diversions. Almost before I had sat down and sipped up a coffee he was asking for my next question.

I had been told that he lived closely guarded and in constant fear of assassination. When I mentioned this to Ibn Saud he was amused and shrugged his huge shoulders. It certainly did not worry him, and men of all sorts and conditions came and went in the Audience Room quite freely.

Moreover, he dealt with all manner of men face to face, ministers, sheiks, governors, townsmen, and bedouins from the desert who came swaggering in and addressed him: "See here, Abdul Aziz."

Ibn Saud's Birth

Then the King was at his best. He made no attempt to cover himself with formalities or hide behind his kingship. Ibn Saud relied on his own judgment and his own personality. All his work was done in public and open to criticism by all men. He handled each man direct with instinctive skill and tact. He rarely made a mistake, for he had a phenomenal memory for details and a great knowledge of his people.

He was undoubtedly not a typical Arab of the desert, who, though burnt dark, are sallow, rarely over 5 ft. 6 in. and underweight. Whereas Ibn Saud was a foot taller, buge-built, and bronze-skinned without any sallowness.

The desert Arabs are fiercely proud of the purity of their pedigrees, so Ibn Saud's enemies said that he was not pure Arab, but mixed with Georgian or Circassian. They pointed out that his father, Abdur Rahman, had foreign wives.

I made many inquiries, and even asked Ibn Saud himself, who, to my surprise, replied freely, though as a rule Moslems talk rarely of their women. His mother, Sarah, the daughter of Ahmed Sudairi of Ghup, was a woman of the Dawasir tribe, and of pure Arab stock. Also there were no other giants in his family. His father was short and thickset. His brothers and Prince Abdullah were typical Arabs. It seemed that he was an isolated phenomenon, thrown up as Mussolini and Hitler have been thrown up, and unexplainable by any laws of heredity.

The Caliphate

As the King waited expectant, I wasted no time in asking my questions.

"When your Majesty in 1924 had conquered Medina and Mecca and chased out Husain the Hashimites, did not many urge you to become a Mahdi and lead the Moslems to a new Holy War, or to become Caliph? You had the qualifications. You were an independent Sovereign, able to protect your people against foreign attack, and you were the guardian of the Holy Cities."

"Harken," he replied, "these fanatics and superstitions such as Mahdis and whatnot! In these we have no part."

"As to the Caliphate, the time for such is not now. I have no ambitions. I am a simple preacher of the simple True Religion. God has laid on me the duty to convert by preaching, and may be, if preaching fails, by the sword." Beyond that I have no ambitions."

"Yes I am learning English. I have a professor in every morning, but it is terrible. I forget it all the moment he goes."

"However, I am going to London two months before the date of production to grapple with the language which Shakespeare spoke so easily."

"Since the heroine of the play is a Frenchwoman trying to learn English, and always getting into awkward situations by the awful things she says quite innocently, my performance promises to be the most startlingly lifelike I have ever given."

"What an exciting language you have—with words like 'rough', 'cough', 'through' and 'brougham'."

Mr. Coward is writing the most charming music and lyrics which I shall sing in English with recourse to French when they become too idiomatic."

"Altogether I have already played about 20 months in London, so I am no stranger to your generous audiences."—Reuter.

ARMY EXAMINATION PAPERS COPIED

Court-Martial Opens This Morning.

TWO SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS AND ORDERLY CHARGED

Sensational disclosures regarding the obtaining of 2nd Class Army Examination papers for a sum of $100, before the last Army examinations held on September 19 and 20, were made at a District Court-Martial this morning at Scandal Point Hall, when Corporal Haydon Brealey and Corporal John Doughty, School instructors attached to the Lincolnshire Regiment, and Private William McArdell, Orderly at the Army Education Office and attached to the South Wales Borderers, were charged under several counts, under the Official Secrets Act of 1911, and communicated the said documents to other persons.

He continued, "His Majesty's Government recognise, however, the difficulties which exist in the way of reaching such an agreement at the present time by reason of the unsettled economic and financial situation, and they have accordingly informed the United States that they are prepared make, on December 15 next, a further payment of $7,500,000 in United States currency in acknowledgement of the debt, pending final settlement."

The British Government had stated that they were ready to resume negotiations on the general question whenever, after consultation with the President, it might appear that this could usefully be done.

Secondly, he was charged with retaining the said documents, prejudicial to the interests of the State, and thirdly that, on August 14 and subsequent dates, he conspired with Private T. Derham of the Borderers and other persons to copy in writing secret documents which were obtained in contravention of the Official Secrets Act of 1911, and communicated the said documents to other persons.

Major H. St. G. Thoys, M.C., Lincolnshire Regiment, presided over the Court Martial and was assisted by Captain D. D. Michell R.A. and Lieutenant J. L. Jordan of the South Wales Borderers.

Mr. J. B. Prentis appeared for the prosecution, assisted by the Prosecuting Officer, Captain T. H. R. Rigg, D.C.M., M.M., Lincolnshire Regiment, while Mr. D. L. Strellet appeared for Corporal Haydon Brealey and Corporal John Doughty, the third accused, Private William McArdell, being represented by Lieutenant J. W. Hope, Adjutant to the South Wales Borderers.

Mr. J. B. Prentis, counsel for the prosecution, opened his case by calling Captain P. S. Cannon, Command Education Officer.

Captain Cannon said that on Saturday, September 23 last, while supervising the correcting of 2nd Class Army Certificate Examination papers taken on September 19 and 20, certain facts were brought to his attention by his assistant Instructor.

In the first place the mathematical papers showed correct answers in many places with wrong workings, while, as regards essays, those submitted for correction showed considerable similarity in form and expression and in certain cases almost identical wording. He drew the conclusion that there must have been a leakage of the questions previous to the examinations and reported the matter to a higher authority at Command Headquarters.

The examination papers, stated Captain Cannon, were the property of H. M. Army and were in the custody of Warrant Officer Senior.

Passing the 2nd Class Army Certificate examination entitled the soldier to draw what was known as the Educational Proficiency pay.

Before the examinations all papers were kept locked up in a box at the Education centre, the key of the box being in the custody of W.O. Senior.

Never Suspected Him.

Cross-examined by Mr. D. L. Strellet, counsel for Corporal Brealey and Corporal Doughty, Captain Cannon said his discovery of the leakage of information regarding the examination papers was not confined to one unit. The examination papers for the 2nd Class Army Certificate were prepared by him or under his instructions.

Cross-examined by Lieutenant J. W. Hope, counsel for Private W. McArdell, witness said he had never had cause to suspect the accused and treated him as his right-hand man.

Warned by counsel that he was giving evidence on oath, Captain Cannon said that before this case he had never suspected any leakage of information, although he did suspect cribbing during the examinations.

Lt. Hope: Can you honestly say that you have never suspected any leakage of information from your office?

Captain Cannon: I have.

In answer to a further question, witness said he realised that if this irregular practice had continued, there would have been a serious result. He did not report the matter to a higher authority before this, were for Mathematics, Army and

TOKEN PAYMENT BY BRITAIN.

"NO DEFAULT," DECLARES ROOSEVELT

London, To-day.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, has announced that the Debt discussions in Washington had ended, and that it had unfortunately not proved possible to reach an agreement for final settlement.

He continued, "His Majesty's Government recognise, however, the difficulties which exist in the way of reaching such an agreement at the present time by reason of the unsettled economic and financial situation, and they have accordingly informed the United States that they are prepared make, on December 15 next, a further payment of $7,500,000 in United States currency in acknowledgement of the debt, pending final settlement."

The British Government had stated that they were ready to resume negotiations on the general question whenever, after consultation with the President, it might appear that this could usefully be done.

The Chancellor read passage from the statement on the discussions which President Roosevelt issued yesterday and in which the President said it had been decided to adjourn them "Until certain facts in the world situation, both commercial and monetary, had become more clarified."

He had, as an executive, noted the representations of the British Government and added,

"In view of this representation and payment, and of the impossibility at this time of passing finally and justly upon the request for the re-adjustment of debt, I have no personal hesitation in saying I shall not regard the British Government as in default."—British Wireless Service.

Private T. Derham, of the South Wales Borderers, stated that in April or May of this year he had been appointed Orderly to the Education Department and lived with Private W. McArdell, the Orderly Corporal, on the veranda of the office.

"Money In It."

Two days after he had commenced his duties, McArdell told him that it would be a good job if he kept his head, and by this witness understood that there would be money in it.

One week prior to the last examinations, on a Saturday, witness was given instructions by Warrant Officer Senior to go on Monday to Shamsuipo Barracks to deliver some examination forms.

Witness informed McArdell of his instructions and the latter said witness was to drop a hint to the Corporal in the school that he would be taking the papers over. McArdell's actual words were, "I want to get more than $100 for them."

On the following Monday morning, prior to witness's departure for the Shamsuipo Barracks, McArdell told him to try and get more than $100 for the papers.

On arrival at Shamsuipo Barracks, witness went into one of the two school rooms and handed over the examination forms to Sergeant Tipple and, in consequence of what the latter said, took them into the other room, where the forms were handed over to a corporal. In that room Private Derham met Corporal Brealey, who asked him what chances there were of obtaining the 2nd Class Army Certificate examination papers. Witness assured Brealey that the chances were good and then returned to Victoria Barracks.

That same afternoon he was again informed by Warrant Officer Senior that on Wednesday morning he would have to take the examination papers in question to Shamsuipo Barracks.

Private Derham again saw Private W. McArdell, who told him to let the papers go unless he obtained $100 or more for them.

McArdell then handed him the 2nd Class Examination papers which were for Mathematics, Army and Empire, and Essays.

At about 9 a.m. on Wednesday witness arrived at Shamsuipo Barracks and there met Brealey, who looked the papers over and said he would give $80 for them. After much haggling over price it was finally arranged that $100 was to be paid for them and that before Brealey should meet at the Sunfrees Cafe, near the Majestic Theatre in Nathan Road, on Friday night to make the exchange.

To-day's Short Story.

POOR MAN'S INN

By Richard Hughes.

A charming wedding took place at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, this afternoon, when Miss Elizabeth Stuart Black Laing, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Laing of Troon, Scotland, became the wife of the well-known Inter-port sportsman, Mr. Lawrence (Lolly) Goldman of Gilman and Company Ltd., the second son of Mrs. C. Goldman of Singapore, and the late Mr. D. Goldman of Shanghai. The Rev. E. W. Powell officiated.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Joan Churchill as bridesmaid, wore a graceful "Eunice" model with high neck tied at the back and finished with long ends. The bodice was of Peau d'ange lace and the skirt of ivory bridal satin, a skillfully twisted girdle and rather high waistline held by a cluster of orange blossoms being unique. The train of bridal satin embodied a wide panel of lace trailing in a point behind.

A beautiful hand-embroidered net veil, lent by Mrs. S. D. Begg, was held by tiny orange blossoms at the nape of the neck.

The bride carried a sheath of white heather and choice orchids, the gift of Mr. S. D. Begg.

The bridesmaid, Miss Joan Churchill, wore a charming gown by "Eunice" of powder-blue tulle over marocaine, daintily dotted with tiny silver aquinas, with a silver lace cap and mittens. Instead of flowers, the bridesmaid carried a muff of tulle and silver lace finished with white heather and pink rose-buds.

The bride was given away by Mr. C. W. E. Bishop, Mrs. C. W. E. Bishop who was the Matron of Honour, was dressed in a model of green marocaine and chiffon velvet by Madame D'Obry.

Mr. F. R. Burch was the best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at No. 1 Leighton Hill Road, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. E. Bishop.

Later in the evening, the couple left for their honeymoon, which is being spent at Fanling.

The bride's going-away dress was a smart ensemble of Nattine blue tulle with the new "swagger" coat and hat trimmed with dove grey, with the shoes, bag and gloves toning also by "Eunice."

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, said yesterday that he had made vigorous representations regarding the arrest of Mr. Noel Panter, Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, through the German Embassy in London and the British Embassy in Berlin.

He had now been informed by the German Foreign Minister that "No order of expulsion has been made against Mr. Panter, and he is therefore free to return to Germany, as no charge or other penalties lie against him."—British Wireless Service.

POOR MAN'S INN

He handed me a creased photograph of a young woman, in the conscious splendour of Sunday black, standing in front of a balustrade, one hand rested firmly on an aspidistra-pot on a fancy stand.

"Now, would you call her hand-some?"

I examined it carefully. "I would."

He seemed disappointed.

"Would you? I wouldn't: not real handsome. Not like one of them flash girls. That's my wife! Irish girl. Irish temper, too. Lumme! Lord alone knows what I wanted to do it for. We was married proper, you know. Registry and all. Nor her either! She'd got birth, and she'd got education—read as winking, she could. She hadn't got no business to marry a chap like me! Ought to know better, she did!"

Mr. Lenora stirred, and muttered something unintelligible that was smothered in another snore.

Bill turned on him, his face all comical with mock indignation.

"Now then, you low fella, will you kindly not interrupt!" He said this in an astonishingly good parody of an Oxford accent.

"—or I'll roll you out in the ruddy rain!" he added in his own voice and chuckled.

"But I'm through with it," he went on. "Coo, lumme, what a life!—Hello, who goes there?"

There was a sound of more footsteps through the rain: a man's cautious plodding through the dark, and the clip-clap of a loose sole on the shoe of the woman who followed him.

"Walk up! Walk up!" cried Bill cheerfully.

But the stranger was unresponsive.

He was a small man, with that roundness of figure and thinness of limb that often come of having too little to eat.

As he paused at the edge of the firelight, he blew through his moustache so that the raindrops rumbled out of it. But the oldest thing about him was his nose: he had a nervous trick of twitching it, like a rabbit.

He sat down with a grunt, taking not the slightest notice of the girl at his heels. She had pulled her skirt up to hood her head: her muddy petticoat flapped against her legs.

She took equally little notice of him: and sat down, too, a little way off, swathed like a mummy, half in the shadow.

"Full bar to-night, gentlemen!" Bill went on jocularly. "A pint of old and mild all round, please, Joe! Coo, I could do with a bit of grog inside me to-night. Cruel, ain't it, Mr. Parker?"

"My name ain't Parker," said the stranger sullenly, his nose twitching. "It's Spencer. What do you call me Parker for?"

Bill looked at him and shook with mirth. "Coo! I don't know! I can't think! Now, why ever should I go and call him Parker, eh, Friend?"

He dug me in the ribs, and went off into fresh peals of mirth.

"Don't take no offence," he went on. "I ain't a fighting man. I ain't that sort of chap. If a man wants to quarrel with me, I don't hit him; nor I!"—he began to chuckle in anticipation of his little joke—"I just go up to him, friendly like, and bite a piece right out of his bloomin' face!"

"Well, you see, we had a bit of a row, too many girls; you know. She used to get wild if I brought 'em into the house. Threaten to kill me, she used to. Only her temper, you know: she didn't mean nothing by it. She was a good girl at heart. I just took up the poker—not to beat her, you know, to learn her—and she tripped up and broke her poor blooming ankle. Month, she was in the Firmary."

Mr. Spencer snorted again, and took off his boots. He ostentatiously poured the water out of them on to the fire, to set it up in steam. Then he began to examine the condition of his feet. But Bill went on, undisturbed.

"Pretty thin time of it I had. My show was stale—oughtn't never to do it more than a week. I didn't get more than a tanner a night. Nor I couldn't change it easy. I was used to do the Magic Coffin Trick—shove Nell in a coffin, padlocked 'ead and foot each end, then saw it through the middle. That always fetched 'em, but I couldn't do it without Nell. You can't do it with any girl, you see: she's got to be made that way, like Nell was."

"Nor I hadn't got my Electrocution Chair. That always fetched 'em, but you couldn't lug it around with you. Nor I couldn't think of any new trick. You know how it is: when you're in luck, you can't think of half a dozen new stunts; but when you're down on it, you just think of nothing. Cooo, lumme, I remember up Llandudno way, once I go a bit of wood, and I nailed thousands of lugworms on to it, so you couldn't see the wood for the worms. Then I put it in a tank and exhibited it with a marine monster, Pride of the Ocean! When the silly worms waggled, you see, they swum it about. I took pounds on pounds out of that: gate-money. Stuff in the papers, there was: Unknown Monster Captured at Llandudno." The Johnnie came down from the Aquarium: he wanted to buy it. That put the wind up me, that did. I broke it up. Said I'd throw it back in its native ocean, I did!"

"He offered a reward to anyone who could catch it again. They was all out fishing, for weeks, they were. Cooo, lumme!"

"But, as I was saying, I couldn't think of nothing. I couldn't do a bit of house-breaking, cos I hadn't got no money: you must 'ave somethin', if you're going to win. I got the brains, and I got the experience: but I hadn't got the capital."

"There wasn't nothing for it but fire-eatin'. I done it. But it's terrible hard on the kidneys, that is: was awful bad inside. No one can't do it more than six months, even ones what's used to it. When Nell was comin' out, I didn't go no more than half a crown. So the day before, I shoved a bob into her bed, and went it."

"Did she know you was going?" I asked.

"Now. Made a scene, she would 'ave. She was real fond of me. I was a good husband to 'er. I don't suppose she's got over it yet, proper. Terrible fond, she was."

Mr. Spencer was puffing with anger: his nose twiching up and down as if he had the ague.

"That's a nice edifying little story to tell a party of strangers! Washin' your dirty linen in public!"

"Dairly linen?" said Bill, in genuine amazement. "Why, I don't see—"

He paused: and Mr. Spencer fidgeted nervously all over.

"Yus, dirty linen! You're as bad as a divorce court, you ar. You ought to be in gaol, you did!"

The girl, sitting huddled away from the fire, was shivering with cold, her teeth chattering. Suddenly she threw the skirt back off her head: the light shone a face of quite delicate beauty, now marr'd and twisted with rage: her great eyes glittered in her head like fire: her lips were drawn back tightly from her shining teeth.

Bill stared at her stupidly; slowly his expression changed to one of delight and an extraordinary tenderness.

"Yell, I'm—" he began. Her hand was hidden in a fold of her dress. There was the sudden crack of a revolver, and then Bill pitched right over sideways on to his face.

Mr. Spencer turned towards her, seemed to tower over her.

"Whatever have you been and gone and done?" he said, very slowly.

Nell took no notice of him. The passion of her face had changed to a sort of impersonal harness: she rose on to one knee, her loose, wet hair blowing against the roof of the cave.

She threw the revolver down: it glanced on a stone, and skidded down the slope to where Mr. Lenora was still sleeping—the man born to be hanged.

Mr. Spencer still stared at her fixedly.

"Crikey!" he said presently, "Grickey!" several times, with increasing emphasis. Suddenly he let out a funny little screech in the back of his throat: his eyes were staring like a pug-dog's.

"Lumme, they'd have to thank me and the Devil for that," he said. "I'll be a lesson to her, eh Friend? Lord, I was pretty near mad, she was: she loved me that crook! You thought you'd go off with her, did you? Cooo, lumme, what a joke! You are a caution!"

He roared with laughter, slapping his huge thighs. Then he heaved over to one side and picked up the revolver.

"It isn't your time yet, my friend," he said soberly enough, leaning over Mr. Lenora, whose face was twitching with some discomfort as he slept.

"Though you haven't got this cove to thank you didn't wake up in clinch to-morrow! Lumme, they'd have to thank me and the Devil for that."

Bill chuckled again.

"Though I'm not saying it wouldn't be better for him if they did. It's got to come some time: you can't go against a sure sign like them eye-brows; and it would be better for his soul to be hanged when he hadn't done nothing than waiting till he had. wouldn't it, Friend?"

"You're right, there, mister," I answered conciliatingly.

But he suddenly swung round with incredible rapidity, and covered me with his gun. His cheerful face was twisted with ferocity.

"So you thought you'd go off with her, did you?"

"I—I didn't mean anything!"

"Oh, you didn't 'yad' y'all! Going with a married woman!"

His mouth was still set like a wild beast's; but there was a gleam in his eye—and I banked on it.

"She wasn't a married woman, taller: she was a widow!"

He burst out laughing, and thrust the revolver into his side-pocket.

"Bless you, I hadn't no cause to worry! I know Nell."

"I don't know about you," said I, "but my legs are stiff as a board with wet and cold, and there's a good moon. Let's walk on a mile or two, before dawn."

"Gure," said Bill, and swung his huge sack. Togakwe we found our way out to the road.

"No, Friend, as I was saying," began Bill sententiously.

There was Nell, huddled at the roadside, half in the moonlight. Bill touched her. She was quite dead, stabbed through the heart. Bill

DISTURBANCES IN PALESTINE.

Confidence In High Commissioner.

BRITAIN WILL CARRY OUT DUTY UNDER MANDATE.

London, To-day. In the House of Commons yesterday the Colonial Secretary, Sir Philip Cunliffe Lester, referring to the recent Palestine disturbances, repeated the firm assurance that the British Government's duty under the Mandate, to both Arabs and Jews, would be discharged with scrupulous fairness.

He added "I know this House will endorse that no officer could be found better qualified by knowledge, sympathy and experience to discharge that duty on the spot than the present High Commissioner Lieut.-General Sir Arthur Grenfell Wainhouse, K.C.B.—British Wireless Service."

ARGENTINE TRADE AGREEMENT.

May Convention Signed Yesterday In London.

London, To-day. The exchange of ratifications of the Anglo-Argentine commercial agreement signed in May, together with those of the supplementary agreement came into force as from midnight yesterday.—British Wireless Service.

JAPANESE SHIP IN DISTRESS

About 400 Miles S.E. Of Hong Kong.

CANADA MARU TO THE RESCUE.

In response to S. O. S. calls from the Japanese freighter Helan Maru yesterday, the O. S. K. a.s. Canada Maru was at once rushed to the rescue and expected to reach the position given, some 400 miles southeast of Hong Kong, off the Coast of Luzon, at about 10 o'clock this morning.

The last message received from the distressed vessel read: "Water increasing more and more."

The Helan Maru was on her way from Christmas Island to Japan carrying a large cargo of phosphate. She left Christmas Island at the end of October, bound for Mikie direct. She is under charter to the M.B.K.

GOSPEL SHIP NEARS COMPLETION

Hand-Driven Propelling Gear Fitted.

TO SAIL IN TRANS-TASMAN RACE

Auckland, N.Z. One of the strangest craft an amateur boat-builder ever planned is nearing completion on the banks of the Wade River. She is the Gospel ship Ysabel.

Forty-one feet long and rigged as a barquentine, the vessel is constructed out of woods obtained in the bush and cut and shaped with axe, saw, and plane, and a chisel made out of an old file.

The builder is Mr. L. Beavis. He measured everything by span of the fingers. Keeping a Bible handy while he worked, he has written or cut on every timber in the craft a text from the Gospel, and the figure-head represents an angel holding an open Bible.

In rigging the vessel Mr. Beavis intends to follow the plan of the original Ysabel, which, before she became an island trader, was the Melanesian Mission ship Southern Cross. For auxiliary power he intends to install a hand-driven propelling gear of his own design. He will sail the craft single-handed, and proposes to compete in the trans-Tasman race and then make his way to Palestine to witness the fulfilment of Biblical prophecies which he believes to be impending.
